

Jackson County Hidden Voice

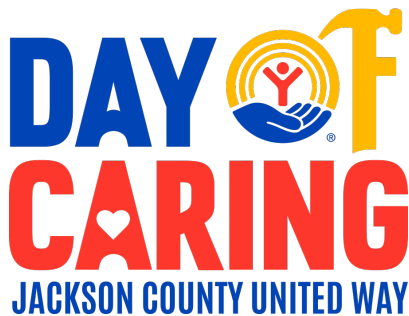

JCUW is bringing our own spin on a popular reality show right here to Jackson County! On Saturday, March 29th, the Jackson County Hidden Voice will make its debut at the Pines Evergreen Room in Seymour. Ticket sales close Friday, March 21.

The Jackson County Hidden Voice is a nod to the famous “Masked Singer” TV show, which has run on Fox for 12 seasons. The singing competition brings together celebrities with concealed identities to perform songs for a panel of judges. As the contestants are eliminated, they unmask themselves for the audience, revealing their identities to those watching. The Jackson County version will feature eight local “celebrities” as they compete for the champion title.

Proceeds from the Jackson County Hidden Voice will support JCUW’s Annual Campaign, which funds local programming related to healthy living, youth opportunities, and financial security. In 2024, JCUW supported 16 community programs across 12 agencies by investing funds into these programs.
